PJ's Hungry Heart

A Tribute Song

Intro - acoustic guitar, mandolin

Verse 1

From the very first moment, a hungry glance you'd send,
My sweet English Bulldog, my loyal, wrinkly friend.
With a gentle, rolling gait and a heart so full of cheer,
You taught me simple joys, banishing all fear.

Chorus

Oh, PJ, dear PJ, for seven wonderful years,
You filled our home with laughter, you wiped away our tears.
A faithful shadow by my side, a love so pure and deep,
Treasured memories of you, my heart will always keep.

Verse 2

Each evening, as the clock ticked, a sacred time for you,
Seven o'clock would roll around, and your excitement grew.
A little snort, a happy sigh, a wiggle and a shake,
For dinner was approaching, a promise you would take.

Chorus

Oh, PJ, dear PJ, for seven wonderful years,
You filled our home with laughter, you wiped away our tears.
A faithful shadow by my side, a love so pure and deep,
Treasured memories of you, my heart will always keep.

Bridge

The quiet whisper, "Are you hungry?", still echoes in my mind,
A loving question for the best boy, one of a kind.
Your gentle spirit touched us all, a bond that will not cease,

Leaving paw prints on our souls, and a quiet, loving peace.

Instrumental - mandolin solo

Final Chorus

Oh, PJ, dear PJ, for seven wonderful years,
You filled our home with laughter, you wiped away our tears.
A faithful shadow by my side, a love so pure and deep,
Treasured memories of you, my heart will always keep.

Outro

Now you're running free and bright, chasing dreams across the sky,
Looking for those phantom treats, beneath a loving eye.
Sleeping soundly, belly full, in fields of endless grace,
Until we meet again, dear friend, in that sweet, peaceful place.
