Cocoa's Ever Bright Light

A Tribute Song

Intro - piano, acoustic guitar

Verse 1

The very first moment, your gaze met my own,
A look deep into my soul, a truth I'd known.
Your face I still picture, each passing day,
A Staffy's strong spirit, in every way.

Chorus

Oh Cocoa, my Cocoa, for fifteen long years,
You filled up my life, through laughter and tears.
Your enormous presence, a light ever bright,
You're still in my heart, both day and through night.

Verse 2

Our early morning walks, before work would call,
You'd play with your tennis ball, giving your all.
Squeaky toys you'd conquer, till the sound would cease,
Then curled up beside me, bringing me peace.
Car trips and treats, just watching TV,
Getting big loving hugs, meant the whole world to me.
At bedtime, you'd drift off, to sleep without fears,
As I scratched right behind your soft, velvet ears.

Chorus

Oh Cocoa, my Cocoa, for fifteen long years,
You filled up my life, through laughter and tears.
Your enormous presence, a light ever bright,
You're still in my heart, both day and through night.

Bridge

I love you, my Cocoa, I think of you each day,
And oh, how I wish you could come back and stay.
This house feels so empty, a space where you'd roam,
I so wish, sweet girl, you could just come back home.

Instrumental - piano, acoustic guitar, strings

Final Chorus

Oh Cocoa, my Cocoa, for fifteen long years,
You filled up my life, through laughter and tears.
Your enormous presence, a light ever bright,
You're still in my heart, both day and through night.

Outro

Now you're sleeping softly, in a warm sunbeam,
A peaceful, sweet slumber, a beautiful dream.
No more goodbye whispers, no more sad tears,
You were the best part of coming home.

Outro - piano fade, acoustic guitar
