Cookie's Sky Blue Soul

A Tribute Song

Intro - piano, strings

Verse 1

I remember coming home, the engine barely still Hearing your sweet howl greet me, waiting by the sill
A happy, wagging tail and a smile upon your face
"I'm so glad you're home, Momma, give me some embrace"
Even when the stairs grew hard, you'd peer down from above
A husky full of joy, and a lifetime full of love

Chorus

Oh, Cookie, my sweet girl, my heart still feels so bare
Almost thirteen years we shared, a bond beyond compare
Your sky blue eyes could see right through, straight into my soul
You understood my every word, making my spirit whole

Verse 2

On quiet afternoons, when I finally walked inside
You'd flip right over for your rubs, nowhere left to hide
Your purple 'baby' was so safe, no other toy could claim
While all the others piled beneath my bed, you knew their game
You'd pout and cry when I was gone, I saw it on the screen
Then coax me up to bed with toys, the sweetest, bossy queen

Chorus

Oh, Cookie, my sweet girl, my heart still feels so bare
Almost thirteen years we shared, a bond beyond compare
Your sky blue eyes could see right through, straight into my soul
You understood my every word, making my spirit whole

Bridge

Cookie's Sky Blue Soul (continued)

I'm sorry, precious girl, I should have trusted my own heart
Misdiagnosis stole our time, tearing us apart
You deserved so much more, I feel you all around
I kiss your box of ashes, without a single sound
Thank you for blessing my life, my greatest friend and guide
You'll be the first I look for, waiting at my side

Instrumental - strings, piano

Final Chorus

Oh, Cookie, my sweet girl, my heart still feels so bare
Almost thirteen years we shared, a bond beyond compare
Your sky blue eyes could see right through, straight into my soul
You understood my every word, making my spirit whole

Outro

Now you boss them all around, sitting pretty, looking grand
Happy, free, and waiting for me in the Rainbow Land
Do whatever makes you happy, sweet girl, till I arrive
You will stay within my heart, forever you survive

Outro - cello fade

Forever in our hearts
