Brody's Free Run

A Tribute Song

Intro - acoustic guitar, mandolin

Verse 1

Just a pup, two months old, so small and shy,
Found by the highway beneath a wide sky.
A lonely white shadow, in a cage by the road,
We opened our hearts, lifted your heavy load.
A forever home, a promise we made true,
From that moment on, our world felt brand new.
Your gentle spirit, a beautiful sight,
Filled every corner with love and with light.

Chorus

Oh, Brody, my sweet boy, you're free to roam,
For three beautiful years, you made our house a home.
Though tears may fall, we sing your bright song,
Knowing where you are is where you belong.

Verse 2

No single moment could ever define,
The constant devotion, truly divine.
Every sunrise, every game we would play,
You brightened our lives in every sweet way.
Your soft fur, your eyes, so honest and deep,
The secrets and laughter our hearts will now keep.
A loyal companion, so faithful and true,
Our wonderful Brody, we cherished you.

Chorus

Oh, Brody, my sweet boy, you're free to roam,
For three beautiful years, you made our house a home.

Though tears may fall, we sing your bright song,
Knowing where you are is where you belong.

Verse 3

The path you now travel, so gentle and wide,
Your human dad waiting, right there by your side.
No more struggle, no more heavy pain,
Just sunny fields, and freedom again.
A bond forged in heaven, a love understood,
Running so bravely, just as you should.
Your spirit dances, light, agile, and free,
A comfort and peace, now shining for me.

Bridge

I will always love you, that much is clear,
So thankful we found you, dispelling all fear.
We gave you a home, with comfort and grace,
And held you so close, in that final embrace.
You'll never be forgotten, a truth that will stay,
My heart holds your memory, come what may.

Mandolin Solo

Final Chorus

Oh, Brody, my sweet boy, you're free to roam,
For three beautiful years, you made our house a home.
Though tears may fall, we sing your bright song,
Knowing where you are is where you belong.

Outro

Now you're with your Dad, beyond the blue sky,
Running with buddies, with no pain to cry.
Cancer-free, soaring, a beautiful sight,
Bathed in forever's pure, golden light.
Don't miss me too much, just know that I'm near,
Your spirit forever, held ever so dear.

Outro - acoustic guitar fade

Forever in our hearts
