Maxx, Running Free

A Tribute Song

Intro - piano, strings

Verse 1

The sun would rise, a brand new day,
You'd jump right up and start to play.
With morning kisses, sweet and true,
A gentle nudge, "It's time for you!"
My little shadow, always near,
You'd bark and nag, "Is walkies here?"
So eager for the morning light,
Making every day so bright.

Chorus

Oh, Maxx, my darling, swift and true,
My heart still aches and yearns for you.
Thirteen and a half years by my side,
Your love, my comfort, my sweet guide.

Verse 2

At supper time, a special treat,
You'd claim your spot, oh so sweet.
Up on the chair, upon my lap you'd climb,
A tiny woof, a cherished time.
Your paw upon the plate's soft edge,
A silent plea, a loving pledge.
Those amber eyes, so full of grace,
A loving smile upon your face.

Chorus

Oh, Maxx, my darling, swift and true,
My heart still aches and yearns for you.

Maxx, Running Free (continued)

Thirteen and a half years by my side,
Your love, my comfort, my sweet guide.

Bridge

Mommy loves my sweet boy, you know it's true,
No pain awaits, a world brand new.
Across the bridge, where light will gleam,
With Tango, Sasha, a joyful dream.
With both your eyes, you'll see so clear,
Someday, my love, I'll join you there.

Instrumental - strings, woodwinds

Final Chorus

Oh, Maxx, my darling, swift and true,
My heart still aches and yearns for you.
Thirteen and a half years by my side,
Your love, my comfort, my sweet guide.

Outro

Now running free, an open field so wide,
No leash to hold you, nowhere to hide.
Your little legs, like wind they fly,
Beneath the vast and endless sky.
With perfect sight, you see anew,
My sweet boy, I'll always remember you.

Forever in our hearts
