Bobby's Sunday Morning Joy

A Tribute Song

Intro - acoustic guitar, harmonica

Verse 1

I remember the first time, a sweet, gentle giant, you came my way,
With a playful nudge and a happy sigh, you brightened every single day.
You'd look at me with those knowing eyes, a silent plea, so clear and true,
Then Bobby would spin for his 'please,' and the whole wide world felt brand new.

Chorus

Oh, Bobby, my good boy, through laughter and through tears,
You filled my life with sunshine for four incredible years.
A faithful heart, a loving soul, a bond forever strong,
Bobby, my sweet companion, where do you belong?

Verse 2

Sunday mornings, quiet and still, then a rumble, a joyous bark,
You'd bounce and pounce, ready to wrestle, leaving your happy mark.
The zoomies would hit, a whirlwind of joy, through the house, you'd softly race,
Bringing so much laughter and love to this quiet, sacred place.

Chorus

Oh, Bobby, my good boy, through laughter and through tears,
You filled my life with sunshine for four incredible years.
A faithful heart, a loving soul, a bond forever strong,
Bobby, my sweet companion, where do you belong?

Bridge

Now I close my eyes and hear a whisper, so gentle and so near,
It's a Bobby just doing Bobby things, calming every fear.
Go Bobby, where's your pig toy? Chase it, my sweet friend,

Your spirit runs eternal, a love that has no end.

Harmonica Solo

Final Chorus

Oh, Bobby, my good boy, through laughter and through tears,
You filled my life with sunshine for four incredible years.
A faithful heart, a loving soul, a bond forever strong,
Bobby, my sweet companion, where do you belong?

Outro - acoustic guitar fade

I see you upside-down on the bed, just waiting for the night,
For that moment we fall asleep together, bathed in gentle light.
Rest easy, sweet Bobby, run free in endless dreams,
Forever in my heart, or so it truly seems.

Forever in our hearts
