Roscoe's Endless Fields

A Tribute Song

Intro - piano, strings

Verse 1

Two short years, a playful heart so bright,
You'd curl up close and sleep within my light.
My best friend, companion, true and bold,
A story of love, more precious than gold.
With curious eyes, you loved to dig and roam,
Bringing endless joy inside our home.
Small paws led the way on every quest,
A happy Frenchie, putting us to the test.

Chorus

Oh, Roscoe, Roscoe, our sweet boy,
You filled two years with boundless joy.
Though grief may ache, and tears may fall,
Your paw prints linger, answering love's call.

Verse 2

At 8 PM, your cuddles were a grace,
A special moment in time and space.
On Daddy's lap, while busy he would be,
And Thursdays, all day long, you'd sit with me.
Your quick licks, a secret language known,
A love so pure, exquisitely shown.
Always adventuring, keen and so alive,
In every memory, you still survive.

Chorus

Oh, Roscoe, Roscoe, our sweet boy,
You filled two years with boundless joy.

Though grief may ache, and tears may fall,
Your paw prints linger, answering love's call.

Bridge

And when my own long journey finally ends,
I pray you'll wait for me, my dearest friend.
Run to me then, with fast little kisses,
Let me hold you close, beyond all misses.

Instrumental - strings, piano

Final Chorus

Oh, Roscoe, Roscoe, our sweet boy,
You filled two years with boundless joy.
Though grief may ache, and tears may fall,
Your paw prints linger, answering love's call.

Outro

No more seizures, confusion, or fear,
Just endless fields, where all is clear.
A healthy body, vibrant and free,
Our happiest Roscoe, running eternally.

Outro - strings fade
