
Pongo's Meadow Run

A Tribute Song

Intro - acoustic guitar, ukulele

Verse 1

The first time I saw you, a bit of a fright,
But holding you close, everything felt so right.
My soul found its twin, a love so profound,
My handsome, sweet boy, on hallowed ground.
Your gorgeous eyes, a beautiful stare,
A bond formed that moment beyond all compare.
Full of love, full of fun, a heart pure and true,
My best boy, Pongo, I'm grateful for you.

Chorus

Oh, Pongo, my sweet, my soul mate, my friend,
Eleven years of joy that will never quite end.
Though tears may fall, I will smile through the pain,
Knowing your spirit will always remain.

Verse 2

The clock struck six, or sometimes much later,
Our four-hour walks, no joy could be greater.
To the parks we would roam, for our ball game's delight,
Chasing furry friends and squirrels, bathed in soft light.
Your hugs and your kisses, your sweet, happy grin,
A world full of wonder, where we'd always begin.
Every step of the journey, a treasure so dear,
You chased every shadow, you banished all fear.

Chorus

Oh, Pongo, my sweet, my soul mate, my friend,
Eleven years of joy that will never quite end.
Though tears may fall, I will smile through the pain,
Knowing your spirit will always remain.

Verse 3

Pongo's Meadow Run (continued)

Though silence now lingers where your paws once trod,
Your spirit and presence, a joy from the start.
Those looks from your eyes, so soulful and deep,
A thousand sweet memories our hearts safely keep.
My handsome, pretty boy, full of life, full of cheer,
You chased away shadows, and banished all fear.
The warmth of your spirit, a fire so bright,
Guiding my journey, through day and through night.

Bridge

Pongo, my love, I miss you so much, it is true,
But run free, no more pain, till I find you.
Have fun till we meet, among the stars high above,
Our souls will unite, reborn in pure love.

Instrumental - ukulele, acoustic guitar

Final Chorus

Oh, Pongo, my sweet, my soul mate, my friend,
Eleven years of joy that will never quite end.
Though tears may fall, I will smile through the pain,
Knowing your spirit will always remain.

Outro

Now you're running free, no hurt, no more plight,
Doing rabbit jumpers, a beautiful sight.
Eating all you desire, in fields bright and vast,
Playing hide-and-seek where the flowery meadows are cast.

Outro - acoustic guitar fade
